

Lucienne Lunn, J.D./Psy.D.

Overview of Coaching

Lucienne is a senior consultant who brings a broad range of experience to Berman Leadership Development. Leveraging her background in clinical psychology, she helps leaders cultivate empathy and emotional intelligence to foster stronger collaboration in evolving business contexts. Her legal analytical skills enable her to quickly identify key areas of focus, empowering her clients to make greater impacts on their organizations. Lucienne also puts her international experiences to work for executives, exploring ways to build on the strengths and talents of diverse teams to drive innovation and deliver results.

Background and Experience

At Berman Leadership Development, Lucienne provides executive and organizational assessment, development planning, and other services for multiple organizations. Her clients benefit from her interdisciplinary approach, which is informed by her training in psychology, law, and Alternative Dispute Resolution (ADR). Integrating insights from these fields, Lucienne helps executives identify critical areas of focus and develop actionable plans for building leadership skills.

Lucienne's experience in several business sectors helped her develop a flexible style that she can quickly adapt to her clients' organizational contexts. At home in the US, she has worked in restaurants, federal and county correctional institutions, and a wide variety of mental health settings. In Australia, she assisted a judge in the criminal court system, and she contributed to an initiative to promote natural resource transparency in Liberia. She has virtually collaborated on a variety of research publications and performed and toured as a professional musician. At Berman Leadership Development, Lucienne has worked with pharmaceutical, healthcare, manufacturing, and financial services companies.
